

Induction Day Programme – 7th October, 2015

The NSS Unit at the Central University of Jammu organised Induction Day Programme for NSS Volunteers to formally orient the volunteers to NSS framework. Prof. Jasbir Singh, Chairman NSS Jammu University delivered the orientation lecture on 'Role of NSS in Shaping Youth' and interacted with the volunteers. The event was presided over by Prof. Ashok Aima, Vice Chancellor of the university, who emphasises the need for such a forum for students to channelize their energy and knowledge for community development. He averted that learning has to be beyond class rooms and students should be sensitised about problems and challenges of the society. Prof. Jasbir Singh presented the historical background of NSS and its role in shaping the character of Indian youth through community engagement and selfless service. He encouraged volunteers to take part in all the activities and programmes organised by NSS, which would help them to hone their overall personality. "Mere education and degree will not suffice unless it is integrated into community service", he added. More than 90 students and volunteers participated in the programme.
